Hotel School and Study Abroad

The Hotel School represents the international aspects of the hospitality industry in many ways - from the large number of international students in its program, to career opportunities throughout the world.

To prepare for the global nature of the industry students are encouraged to consider studying abroad. While abroad, students have the opportunity to learn about other cultures, become more proficient in another language and, in those programs where internships are offered, work in an international environment.

Cost, Billing and Financial Aid

- With Cornell Abroad, the cost of study abroad depends on what program you attend!
- Estimated budgets include bursared and out-of-pocket costs.
- Financial aid is available for Semester/Year programs
- See cuabroad.cornell.edu for more information.

Treadwell Overseas Program Endowment Fund

John P. '61 and Margaret M. Treadwell

Awarded to a Hotel School student to encourage language & cultural immersion when studying abroad

- Must pursue a foreign language by taking courses in language of host country & language course; and/or
- Live in a home-stay, apartment or dorm where the host language is used; and/or
- Use the language in community involvement, internship or other extracurricular activity

Apply to the Hotel School Study Abroad Advisor by writing a 250 word summary of your goals for your experience abroad as it relates to language and cultural immersion.

Cornell Abroad

How to make study abroad an integrated part of your Cornell-Hotel School experience:

Credits Abroad and Transfer of Credit

- Students seeking credit for study abroad must apply through Cornell Abroad and carry a full course load equivalent to a minimum of 15 Cornell credits. All courses must be taken for a letter grade. Must earn a grade equivalent to a Cornell grade of “C” or better. Course titles and grades appear on the Cornell transcript, but are not factored into the Cornell GPA.
- Credits abroad may transfer back to the Hotel School as Non-HADM or free elective credit only. Students cannot take courses where the material significantly overlaps with material in a course that they have received credit for at the Hotel School or intend to take at the Hotel School upon their return. NO courses taken abroad will transfer back to the Hotel School as core credit or Hotel School elective credit.
- Short term study abroad is offered through Cornell School for Continuing Education (SCE) for Cornell credit. Transfer credit also available. Register short-term study through Cornell Abroad.
